MANY-CAR FAMILIES.
HIS MONUMENT
IT'S BIG AND LITTLE RELIGIONS TO SUIT.

—By Arthur Brisbane—

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 24.—To know that the world is small, and to the edge of the Pacific and talk to New York friends as easily as though they were in the same room. Or call London and talk un- consciously of the fact that your voice, transformed into an electric impulse, flashes across the Atlantic ocean in less than a sixtieth of a second, through the ether.

Next, to realize that the world, this country especially, is big, ex- plore the map on your railroad time table, and look for Tucson, Ariz. You find it a couple of inches away from Los Angeles, and decide to drive there some afternoon to in- vestigate the much praised climate which, Colonel Boyce Thompson says, is the best on this or any other planet.

You discover that the distance is 700 miles, and decide to take one of Paul Shoup's Southern Pacific trains that make the trip in a night.

This west coast supplies every- thing that you want in the way of new ideas, religions, queer beliefs. Many gentlemen teach you to ex- plore hidden resources of your brain and exchange for cash, right away. One, enthusiastic teacher, some- thing new, called "brain breathing." By brain breathing, it seems, you can get rich rapidly.

A mature lady, leader of a re- ligious sect, is annoyed by a charge of murder.

The gentleman in the case was put out of the way with poison. He had taken up another religion. But, without fail, "He will be resurrected after publication of 'The Great Sixth Seal'."

That "seal," you must know, con- tains the secrets of the universe. For it reviving Mr. Ruzzio would be child's play.

One unfortunate father, con- vinced that his religious teachers could bring his daughter back to life, kept the child's body on ice for more than a year.

The religious lady accused of murder, according to witnesses, said she received orders from the angel Gabriel, but was told not to shed blood. Hence the poison.

Strangers to us now, such non- sense was part of religious belief, through all time, until recently.

Thousands were put to death, tor- tured, burned, for not choosing the "only true religion."

Protestants burned Catholics, Catholics burned Protestants, Protestants and Catholics burned Jews, first torturing them to get their money.

Mohammedans killed everybody, except Mohammedans.

The order to slay and spare not, coming from heaven, was nothing exceptional.

This glorious coast from Seattle to San Diego, the land of good roads, faces a family problem less acute in other parts of the country.

The problem is "which cars shall go into the garage, and which shall be parked in the driveways?" Here, the two-car, three-car and four-car family is the rule.

A family with only one car is primitive.

In 1933 Chicago will celebrate in grand style the "century of prog- ress."

And there is much to celebrate.

Rufus C. Daves, brother of our ambassador to England, president of the Chicago celebration, says, "Man is becoming smarter all the time, and because of science the world is a much better place than ever before."

Most gratifying is the fact that man is becoming less brutal all the time. Now, if you want to find murder in the name of religion, the vilest beliefs or superstitions, you go into the gutters of ignorance. You no longer find such things on the throne or in lawmaking bodies.

S. T. Mather, dead in Boston, de- serves a monument as high as the tallest of the magnificent trees pro- tected and preserved by him as di- rector of the national park service.

Once a worker on the old New York Morning Sun, in Dana's time, later a prosperous business man, Mr. Mather devoted his life and fortune to the extension and de- velopment of our national parks.

Born in California, a product of American public schools and the University of California, Mather would want no monument from men. He knew, as every modern man worth while knows, that the only monument worth while is work well done.

Thanks to Mather's work, this nation, for all earthly time, will possess the most magnificent parks on the surface of the globe.

Farmers End Institute In Salem

ATTENDANCE AT SESSIONS MAKES '30 RECORD YEAR

Institute May Become As Large As Any In State Soon

BUSINESS MEN IN FINAL PROGRAMS

Price Cope Will Preside Over Meeting Here Next January

With a spirit of cordial fellowship prevailing over the entire assembly, Salem extended its hand of friend- ship to neighbors of the rural ter- ritory in the closing session of the second annual Salem farmers' in- stitute at the Memorial building auditorium Thursday night.

In the audience of approximately 400 persons were representatives of all branches of the farming indus- try and commercial, business and industrial enterprises of the city. The gathering of both municipal and farm residents brought to a climax the most successful farmers' institute ever held here.

Last night's meeting was held un- der the auspices of the Salem Busi- ness Bureau. J. R. Stratton, presi- dent of the organization, presided as master of ceremonies while W. L. Strain represented the bureau in sounding out the greeting of wel- come to the patrons of the institute.

President Makes Appeal
S. N. VanBlicom, retiring presi- dent of the institute, issued a stir- ring appeal for a continuance of cooperation between city and rural folk, as has been represented in Sa- lem and vicinity during past years.

He explained the principles upon which the organization of the in- stitute was based and banded the municipality and surrounding farm territory together in a spirit of co- operation and friendship in re- questing Stratton representing the city, and Price Cope, incoming head of the rural organization, to stand before the gathering with clasped hands.

"With this year's institute," Van- Blicom stated, "there has been born a new idea, one that carries the principle of cooperation be- tween city and rural folk."

BEREA BURIES CRASH VICTIMS

First Of Funerals Held For School Children Who Met Death

Berea, O., Jan. 24.—As heart-torn and grief-stricken families buried the first of the 10 dead victims of last Wednesday's tragic school bus crash today, every faculty of state, county and civic agencies were directed toward an attempt to safeguard Ohio's highways against further disasters.

The first funeral for victims of the crash here in which nine small school children and a bus driver were killed and one child was injured, was held at 8 a. m. today. Services were conducted at St. Adelbert's Catholic church for 10-year-old William Pastorek.

At 2:30 this afternoon funeral ser- vices will be held for William, 14, and Vernon, 7, Davidson at the home of their parents in Brook Park village. Elbel Davidson, 12-year-old sister of the two dead boys is in Berea Community hospital recover- ing from injuries which she received in the crash. She is the lone sur- vivor of the disaster.

Funeral services for the six other child victims and the bus driver, John Taylor, 36, will be held tomor- row.

Formal verdict of Coroner A. J. Pearson on the bus crash will not be made public until tomorrow. It was indicated today. The report, accord- ing to Coroner Pearson, will place the blame for the disaster on John Tay- lor, the bus driver, who he charges, was guilty of gross neglect.

Lisbon Man Heads Insurance Company

Lisbon, Jan. 24.—E. M. Cresser, general manager of the Lisbon Sales Book company has been elected president of the Columbiana County Mutual Insurance company, suc- ceeding to the vacancy caused by the recent death of Samuel D. Long- shore.

The Columbiana County Mutual Ins. company, is over 100 years old, and is operating under a perpetual charter, obtained by a special act of legislature. Mr. Cresser was for many years engaged in business at East Liverpool and at one time served as county recorder.

MEXICO-SOVIET SPLIT FOLLOWS RED OUTBREAKS

Russian Diplomats Must Leave Country On Next Steamer

MEXICAN MINISTER ALREADY ON TRIP

Communist Uprisings Are Given As Reason For Present Action

Mexico, City, Jan. 24.—To com- plete the severance of diplomatic relations between this country and Soviet Russia, Dr. Alexander Makar, Soviet minister to Mexico, will be expected by the Mexican govern- ment to board the next steamer leaving the country, it was learned today.

The Mexican minister to Moscow is already on the way out of Russia accompanied by the entire legation staff, and leaving only a caretaker in charge of the archives.

In announcing severance of rela- tions with Moscow, the Mexican government held the Soviet govern- ment directly responsible for re- cent Communist demonstrations before Mexican embassies in North and South American cities.

Moscow, Jan. 24.—Considerable surprise was expressed by Soviet officials today over news that the Mexican government had severed diplomatic relations with this coun- try.

No official notification has been received of the break, it was stated at the foreign office. Spokesmen for the latter officially denied any connection with Communist anti-Mexican demonstrations abroad.

BUILDING BILL FACING DELAY

Action Not Expected In Senate Before Late In February

Washington, Jan. 24.—The ad- ministration's plan to launch a new wave of public building over the country today faced long delay as a result of the failure of the senate to act on the Elliott $230,000,000 public buildings bill, passed by the house.

All recommendations for addi- tional appropriations to carry on the federal courthouse and post-office program will wait until the senate acts on the measure. Repre- sentative Wood (R.) of Indiana, chairman of the house appropri- ations committee, announced.

At the same time Senator Keyes (R.) of New Hampshire, chairman of the senate public buildings com- mittee, began an effort to speed up the Elliott bill by calling a meeting of the committee on Saturday.

There is no assurance, however, that a prompt report by the senate committee would be followed by speedy enactment of the measure. With the senate devoting all of its time to the tariff, there is little likelihood of consideration before the latter part of February.

The bill also faces the prospect of many amendments in the senate. Some southern senators, critical of the public building commission's method of allotting new buildings, may insist upon amendments to increase southern allotments.

Receive Invitation

The Salem Ladies Catholic Bene- fit association has received an in- vitation to the central council L. C. B. A. meeting which will be held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at Niles. After the business session there will be an en- tertainment and supper. Some of the Salem members probably will attend.

COMMISSIONERS ASK MORE DATA IN NEILL CASE

Signers of Petition Are Requested To Give Specific Time

WOMAN WHO SIGNED REGRETTING ACTION

Lisbon Kiwanians Extend Vote of Confidence In Accused

Mrs. Kittle L. Rothwell, of East Palestine and president of the Co- lumbiana County W. C. T. U., with 25 others who signed a petition seeking the dismissal of John P. Neill as superintendent of the Co- lumbiana county home have been asked to furnish the county com- missioners on or before Feb. 1 the date, time and place where Neill has been negligent in his administration of the institution.

Last Monday Supt. Neill filed with the county commissioners a request that the petition filed against him be made more definite and certain, and it was to agree with this request that the commissioners' office for- ward letters to all who signed the petition with Mrs. Rothwell to give the date, time and place where and when Neill is supposed to have shirked his duty.

Send Special Letter
Because of the fact that Mrs. Rothwell was the complainant in chief, an individual letter was for- ward her asking that she make her complaint more definite and certain, while the text of the letters sent all others was different.

Those who signed the petition with Mrs. Rothwell asking for the removal of Neill as head of the County Home are Mrs. Helen Horn, J. E. Vanaman, Mrs. Eliza Under- wood, Harry Chamberlain, B. J. Al- corn, H. H. McCartney, Mrs. H. H. McCartney, Mrs. F. E. Albrecht, Mrs. Anna House, Andrew House, Mrs. J. E. Vanaman, Mrs. Nellie Crubbaugh, Walter Crubbaugh, Arilla Warfield, Walter Ward, Myrtle Ward, Mrs. Grace A. Maple, God- frey Muhleman, Rebecca Muhle- man, F. E. Albrecht, Mrs. J. H. Lit- tie, John H. Hiseox, Mrs. John Hiseox.

At a meeting of the Lisbon Ki- wanian club held at the parish house of the Lisbon M. E. church Thurs- day noon, a vote of confidence was given Neill.

The motion calling for the vote was put by R. W. Firestone, of the Firestone bank, Lisbon. A second to the motion was given quickly and was carried without a dissenting voice, and with applause.

Regrets Signing
Mrs. F. E. Albrecht of Lisbon, one of the signers to the petition asking for the removal of Neill, has given Neill a sworn statement in which (Continued on Page 5)

QUIZ SHOOTING BY PATROLMEN

Victim In Hospital With Critical Wounds As Check Goes On

Detroit, Jan. 24.—Four independ- ent investigations into the shoot- ing of Walter Grund, 27, suspected run runner, by two customs border patrol inspectors, probably will be completed today.

In the meantime, the two inspec- tors, Clare B. Hopper, who did the shooting, and his companion, Wm. H. Redford, were "on duty" at the custom's base, but not allowed to do patrol work.

Grund was reported in "critical" condition at Wyandotte General hospital.

United States District Atty. John R. Watkins, Col. Heinrich A. Pick- ert, collector of customs; Fred Gad- ner, special U. S. treasury agent, and Ward Culver, chief assistant prosecuting attorney, are conduct- ing the investigations.

None of them would make any comment on the case today, other than to say they would have state- ments to make when they had fin- ished questioning all witnesses.

Col. Pickert said Hopper and Red- ford would "remain at the base" until the matter is cleared up. Be- cause they were on duty all of Wed- nesday night, and spent Thursday making statements, they were ex- cused from duty last night.

The two inspectors, in their state- ments yesterday, declared they did not fire without giving adequate warning and before Grund had "made a motion for his hip," as "though to draw a revolver."

Four Children Lose Lives In Home Fire

Portsmouth, O., Jan. 24.—Four children were burned to death and four others, all members of the same family, were seriously in- jured, when wife destroyed their home at Ottway, 25 miles west of here, early today.

The fire, which is believed to have been caused by a defective flue, completely destroyed the home. The dead: Raymond Perry, 16; Elsie, a sister, 10; Elmer, a brother, 8; and Bessie, another sister, 6.

The children were sleeping on the second floor, when they were awak- ened by their father, Lawrence Perry, who had discovered the fire when he was aroused by the thick smoke. There were 12 children in the family, and the parents were unable to save them all.

Arthur, 15, sustained a broken ankle when he jumped from a second story window, and his brother, Melvin, 20, was probably fatally in- jured when he landed on his head after having jumped from a win- dow.

Two small girls, Martha, 7, and Malissa, 13, were seriously burned about the face and body, when they ran down a blazing stairway and out of the burning building.

Mrs. Perry escaped, without serious injury, with her 19 months-old baby boy.

The surviving members of the family were forced to helplessly stand and watch the burning of their home, while they heard the screams of the four children, who were unable to escape.

TARIFF TANGLE APPEARS ENDED

Leather and Hides Cause Of Long Battle In House, Senate

Washington, Jan. 24.—The end of the week-long battle over the pro- posal to take hides and leather from the free lists in American tariff structure was in sight today, with all factions hoping for a compromise before night.

Unless a compromise is effected by the half dozen groups which since Monday have been wrangling over rates on hides and leathers and shoes, leaders predicted they would go back to the free list and the house and senate tariff making committee recommendations of a 10 per cent ad valorem duty on hides.

The compromise sought was a basis of a 5 cents a pound duty on hides, with compensatory duties as worked out by the tariff commis- sion. The fate of such a compromise rests with the insurgents, it was in- dicated, who were fearful of the so-called compensatory duties, which would be imposed on leather prod- ucts all up the line from hides to shoes should a basic duty be placed on green hides, would take more out of the farmers' pockets than a duty would put in them.

On the other hand, groups from states where shoes are manufactured contended that to impose a duty on green hides and not give compen- satory duties on dried hides and leathers would ruin the industry.

Combats Taxes

Lisbon, Jan. 24.—In a petition filed in common pleas court by At- torneys J. C. Hanley and Ben L. Bennett of East Liverpool on behalf of John Matern, asking that the City of East Liverpool and the county be restrained from collecting a special street improvement assess- ment, it is brought out that four motor bus companies are especially benefited more than property own- ers.

Lisbon, Jan. 24.—Bids will be opened by the state highway depart- ment at Columbus next week for the erection of four and one-half miles of guard rail in Columbiana county. These guard rails are to be erected on a number of recently constructed roads in this county. This is the only January letting by the highway department in which Columbiana county is interested.

Eight Hundred From One Town Cut Off From World by Water

Vincennes, Ind., Jan. 24.—With death, disease and slow starvation threatening the hundreds of fam- lies which are marooned in the flooded lowlands of southwestern Indiana, today pinned their hopes on an airplane squadron to bring relief.

Efforts to reach the refugees by boat have failed because of ice flows and as a last resort two army air- planes and a squadron of national guard planes today prepared to drop food, clothing and medical supplies at regular intervals through out the flooded zone.

Once the supplies are dropped, small boats will attempt to distrib- ute them to villages and individual families who have taken refuge in flooded houses and barns.

Discouraging reports were brought here last night following a survey of the flooded zone by two army avi- ators. Few signs of life were seen throughout the miles of water and ice-covered river valleys, and it is feared that many have been drown- ed by the swift current.

Word Is Lacking

Eighty-five residents of the village of Decker Chapel, who took refuge in the second floor room of homes there have not been heard from. Many are reported to be ill from disease and exposure.

Eight hundred residents of Grif- fin, Ind., are without food and fuel, and the town is completely cut off by the flood waters, the army fliers reported.

Serious ice jams in the Wabash river near Riverton have dammed up six feet of water and ice. Should the wall break or be dynamited, it is feared that the water would break the levee that is protecting Vincennes and Riverton.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—C' actually ris- ing temperature today brought prom- ise of relief from the sub-zero wave which has prevailed throughout the middle west and central states for the past four days.

Cold To Linger

Although a general rise is predict- ed throughout the eastern and southern sections of the north cen- tral states, it will be several days before the frigid weather definitely subsides, the government weather bureau here reported.

Temperatures of 20 degrees below zero are still common in sections of the northwest.

Thermometers in the lower Great Lakes region still hovered near the zero point today, but were showing a gradual rise. The southern Illi- nois towns of Harrisburg and Car- bondale still suffered in 10 degrees below zero cold.

The cold wave was abating in Ar- kansas, Texas and Oklahoma as the disturbance moved eastward.

BELIEVE WOMAN WAS MURDERED

Body Found In House With Sponge Of Chloroform Tied Over Face; Robbery

Springfield, O., Jan. 24.—A the- ory of murder in connection with the death of Mary Dunton was ad- vanced by police here today. Her body was found late yesterday in a gradual rise. Charles E. Snyder, blacksmith of New Carlisle, near here, where she was employed as housekeeper.

Snyder found the body in a room on the second floor of the home. A sponge, which had been saturated with chloroform, had been tied on the woman's face with a towel.

Sheriff George W. Benham and Coroner Theodore F. Schaefer, who were called to the scene, at first be- lieved the woman had committed suicide.

An investigation disclosed that the house had been ransacked, and police are investigating the death today on a theory of murder.

She was formerly a school teach- er at Lincoln, Neb., and came here about a year ago.

Petition Is Filed

Lisbon, Jan. 24.—Through his counsel P. V. Mackall, Leopold Yauanacci of Wellsville has filed a petition in court against John Gaultier and others, asking that leins be marshaled. The plaintiff recently obtained a judgment in com- mon pleas court against the defend- ant for $100, and the Perpetual Savings & Loan Co. of Wellsville is asked to set up its interest in the property of the defendant.

THE EDUCATED MAN

There is assumed to be a line of demarcation between the literate man and the illiterate man. It must be a very vague line indeed, inasmuch as it seems to exist only in theory and recedes rapidly when approached. This man may have had a fine high school and college training and that one may never have passed the seventh grade. Both are successful by the standards of the world and both are princes of good fellows. It is tacitly assumed, however, that the one with the most training has the inside track and will eventually run a better race.

It is not always so, the confusion arising from a fallacious interpretation of the word "education." Literacy is not, strictly speaking, education. It is merely the most common groundwork for education, which in the most careful analysis is shown to be personal and not a thing that can be superimposed in the classroom.

Chancellor Brown, of New York university, incidentally defined the educated man in a speech recently. He is one "who is making good and continuous progress in his interminable education." He may never have gone to college; he may never have gone to high school, but he may be an educated man independent of the superficialities of formal training. "Progress" and "interminableness" are two essential elements of education, though the Chancellor would admit there are others.

Other men too have attempted definitions of the educated man. Ramsay MacDonald once gave a definition at a supper of the old students of a working-men's college in London.

"The educated man is a man with certain subtle spiritual qualities which make him calm in adversity, happy when alone, just in his dealings, rational and safe in the fullest meaning of that word in all the affairs of life."

Such an education as Mr. MacDonald defines may be acquired far from college walls, especially with the assistance of what the universities call "extension courses" and "home study." Speaking of his own land, where the universities began before those in the United States to extend their tuition to those who could not leave their shops, factories and fields, Mr. MacDonald added that the educated man might be found "in the country somewhere singing the old folk songs, or talking about his sheep and dogs, or quoting Burns."

As has been the multiplication of facilities for extramural education by books, magazines, newspapers and the radio there is still great work to be done. The Carnegie Foundation quotes in its most recent report statistics furnished by Dr. Charles R. Mann, suggesting the numbers who might profitably benefit by more education:

"Among the twenty-three million of our population aged 25 years and younger who are now at work there must be one million potential leaders who have had elementary school experience only, one million six hundred thousand with secondary school experience only, and only four hundred thousand with college experience."

Literacy simply provides a tool to push back the limits of possible progress. It can only be used correctly in the hands of an educated man, and the determination of that state is not determined by how much one knows, but how well one knows how to use it.

Prohibition has given us something to talk about besides the weather, but too much moisture takes the enjoyment out of either one as a topic of conversation.

One of two things, who told a Chicago citizen that they would pass him up if he would give them five dollars, but would beat him up and take all he had if he didn't, managed to escape, but the police found the citizen on top of the other and beating him up. The poor things had no way of knowing that the citizen was of Scotch ancestry and would no more consider giving up five dollars than he would giving up one of his legs.

Prohibition Commissioner James M. Moran says that should President Hoover's plan to relieve federal court congestion be carried out successfully, it will increase the number of arrests for liquor law violations by 50 per cent. If the commissioner is right this country is faced by an era of unprecedented jail building.

A Pennsylvania banker fooled things by wearing two pairs of trousers and carrying his money in the inside pair. But how's that plan going to help the fellow who doesn't have two pairs?

What Others Say

ORTHODOX, BUT IS IT TRUE?
 Margaret E. Sangster sounds a familiar note in her editorial in the Smart Set in which she tells girls that "even in this day of so-called feminine independence" it is better for a bright young woman to hide the fact that she has brains, if she wants male companionship and admiration. Mrs. Sangster insists that men never have admired cleverness in women and don't admire it today.

Perhaps the lady is right. What she maintains is certainly orthodox doctrine among both professional and amateur advisors of youthful females of the species. Yet sometimes we have our doubts.

Is it really brains and cleverness in women to which men object and which are likely to repel them, or is it ill-timed and somewhat astentatious and frequently supercilious display of erudition and wisdom to which certain feminine types are prone that causes the trouble? Do men really object to a naturally gifted and well-educated young woman if she avoids becoming bowed down by the weight of her intellect, retains her natural joyousness and ability to enjoy the lighter side of life, retains her sense of proportion and altogether acts like a natural human being?

It is hard for us to believe it is useful for a girl to act like a fool in order to attract men, because we have seen so many that do nothing of the sort and yet appear to have all the male company they want.—Detroit Free Press.

The Stars Say—

A day in which the personal rather than the business affairs dominate is the forecast made from the ruling configurations. While business interests want lag being under fair stimulus of Mars yet the social, artistic, domestic or affectional relations and activities will engage the attention. There should be glowing adventures of understandings in the latter. Withal, there may be small anxieties, perplexities or delays.

Those whose birthday it is are at the threshold of a year in which the personal progress, prosperity and happiness may engage the attention with the aims and activities centered in this direction although not to the entire neglect of more arduous adventures. The romantic angles may predominate. A child born in this day should be ambitious and energetic with many noble qualities assuring it a lively prosperous and happy career, with much personal popularity and gratification.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

HAZARDS OF CHILD LABOR

Very different are the conditions under which the children of today live, vastly different than they were twenty-five years ago. Yet there are many thousands of children in our fair land today who from necessity, or because of greed and negligence, are forced into industrial work. They are driven to labor during the very years when they should be given every advantage to develop physically and mentally.

In New York City alone 60,000 boys and girls enter industry each year. Health hazards arise almost immediately. Up to this point of their development, the state and society have expended much money upon their education and health. Now, perhaps, all that has been done may be sacrificed because essential care and protection will not be adequate to safeguard their health.

Under New York state laws, gainful employment for children under 14 years of age is forbidden. Those between 14 and 17 years must show a certificate of physical fitness in entering industry, together with on showing a satisfactory school attendance. In that state, too, when a child goes to work he must attend continuation school, and there, once again, he comes under the watchful care of the Health Department.

In many another state such laws have not been made for children entering industry. In some states children are still made to work in the factory ten or eleven hours a day. In some of the rural districts children are employed on the farm, take them until 10 and 11 o'clock at night to finish. In canneries, tenement house work and street trades children are made to work long hours.

In this machine age men and children are often brutally used up by the machine. "The rich rap of human life is being drained to oil the wheels of industry," we hear from one who knows.

Children in industry are more prone to accidents than their elders. An injured child sustains a greater loss than the adult, as he must carry his disability through life.

In 1928 there were 884 children under 16 years of age who were given industrial compensation by the state of New York. The state, too, has a compensation law by which a child illegally employed when the fact is determined, receives double compensation from the state. Not so the legally employed children. The child who is injured should receive a larger compensation, commensurate with his disability through life.

The actual results upon child health in industry may never be known. The high death rate from tuberculosis among children 15 to 20 years of age, the thousands of cases of malnutrition, of incipient disease, of infection in early years which have serious consequences in later life, of accidents—all these take their toll among children of our so enlightened country today.

Every effort should be made for adequate laws in all states and federal laws, as well, to maintain child health and abolish child labor.

Stomach Gas Pressing Around Your Heart

A Result of Neglected Stomach Acidity. Watch These Symptoms

Gas Pressure from a Sour, Acid, Upset Stomach is not only highly uncomfortable, but some day may prove fatal!

When your meals are followed by bloating, a feeling of fullness and pains around the Heart—you may be sure that Stomach Gas is pushing and crowding upwards. That's the reason for the shortness of breath and sharp shooting pains.

To quickly banish this Gas or to prevent its formation, neutralize stomach acidity and cleanse and sweeten the stomach—nothing is better than the simple use of Bismarck Magnesia (powder or tablets) which gives almost instant relief. Salem Socialists will observe Women's day on Sunday, Feb. 27. This day is being set aside as a national event. The program of the day will be entirely in charge of the women. L. H. Goshen, of this city, has an old newspaper clipping in his possession which is quite an interesting relic, to Salem people especially. In it was an advertisement of a Pioneer Fast Stage line, which was operated in 1837 between Cleveland and Pittsburgh and passed through Salem. The time required was 30 hours, which was considered remarkably fast.

Labon—Judge Ralph Ambler, of Carlton, opened common pleas court today, taking up a divorce action. F. M. Cody, lineman in the employ of the Columbiana County Telephone company is confined to his home suffering from injuries sustained Saturday afternoon when he fell 20 feet.

Despite the many signatures to the cat-meat-for-thirty days petition, local meat dealers see no falling off in their trade.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gilson went to Cleveland Saturday to visit over Sunday with his brother, John Gilson, who is in Charity hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Vernon, Lincoln ave., will leave Tuesday morning for Asheville, N. C., to visit their daughter and husband, Dr. and Mrs. Chase Ambler.

Donald Hise, who has been ill of tonsillitis, is reported to be improving.

The Adult Bible class of the Christian church is still leading in its contest with an East Liverpool Sunday school class.

Miss Judith Weaver spent Saturday and Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Weaver, north of town. Monday she returned to North Lima, where she is attending school. Rev. and Mrs. Charles N. Fison have returned to Cleveland. W. V. Fison was called here to conduct the funeral of William Kaufman.

Book Review

DIANA
 BY EMIL LUDWIG

Diana is the first novel that Mr. Ludwig has written—but his biographies are known the world over. And as you read this excellent novel in two volumes you are inclined to believe that he is still the biographer instead of the novelist. For, had Diana, the goddess, lived at the present time she would be very much like his heroine, in fact Diana is age old, and would be the same living in any age. For Diana like the mythical huntress is a worshiper of freedom, and love, for ever elusive and altogether clever and beautiful.

The book leads us through the capitals of Europe—Berlin, Vienna, Athens and then along the shores of the Mediterranean and into intriguing principalities of the Balkans, with Diana ever a pace or two ahead of us.

A short review that comes to us from Leipzig gives you a splendid idea of what is in store for you.

OHIO girl is a Prize Winner...

"LAVADA was a bottle baby and so was very delicate," says Mrs. Rose Temple, 5883 Pearl Road, Cleveland. "She seemed to have trouble with her stomach and bowels; couldn't digest her food right; was constipated.

"California Fig Syrup has changed all that; and made her a different girl. It regulated her bowels quickly, improved her appetite and digestion. She has had no trouble since; but has continued to gain until today friends say she's a regular prize winner for health."

Mothers by thousands, are praising California Fig Syrup. Physicians endorse it. A pure vegetable product.

WEAR BUNN'S GOOD SHOES

"Ladies, the great narrator of human destinies, strings upon the thread of this clever and masterful work a wittily inspired motif."

Brilliant wit, a warm though restrained passion, are the chief memorable features of a work which reading means an unstinted pleasure.

BORGIA
 BY ZONA GALE

Lupercia Borgia brought death and destruction to all that she met and Maria Mansfield grew to have the same idea of herself. The difference being that the Borgia did it because she was cruel and Maria because Fate was cruel. When a friend died of diphtheria she felt that she had murdered him. Then a family party wanted to go one place and she another, and there her cousin is throttled.

Before this was the time that Maria and a friend were seated before an open fire and she remarked "Stir the fire." An amber popped out and the friend lost an eye.

Max Garvin asked to call and Maria said come tonight—consequently an auto wreck and a cripple for life.

By that time such an "I caused the tragedy" complex had claimed Maria that it was her one thought

Zona Gale brings her out of this coma the best way she can, but even at the end when she married the hero and is expected to live happily ever after, you are sure if he walks in his sleep some night and falls down the stairs, the whole thing will be repeated and Maria will think "If only I had done this or that it would never have happened."

Zona Gale's books are all works of art. She chooses her words with a keenness that you know her English is perfect; but this same keenness causes a lack of warmth which makes her characters merely characters.

BYRD PARTY IN DANGER; SHIPS FOR AID ASKED

Vessels of Expedition May Be Unable To Reach Barrier

NO SUPPLIES FOR ANOTHER WINTER

Larger Ships Needed At Once To Penetrate Packs of Ice

London, Jan. 24.—Norwegian whalers are inclined to discredit reports that Rear-Admiral Richard E. Byrd's Antarctic expedition is in great danger, according to dispatches from Oslo which were received by the evening newspapers here today.

Norwegians thoroughly acquainted with Antarctic conditions believe that there will soon be a break in the ice that is hemming in the base of the Byrd expedition, the reports stated.

The advice from Oslo recalled the fact that two Norwegian whalers recently penetrated the Ross sea without difficulty and that one still is operating there.

Washington, Jan. 24.—Starvation and death from the sub-zero temperatures confront Rear Admiral Richard Evelyn Byrd and members of his expedition if they are unable to leave the wastes of the Antarctic before the impassable ice packs form next month, the state department declared today.

The department admitted the seriousness of the situation now facing the Byrd party in its instructions to American Minister to Norway Neeben to appeal to that government to have Norwegian whaling vessels now in the vicinity of the polar region aid Byrd's boats to penetrate the ice.

The department's instructions read: "The Byrd expedition now is ice-bound and is not equipped to spend another winter on the barrier as the food supply is virtually exhausted and Admiral Byrd has reported that several members of the expedition could not survive such an experience."

Ask For Assistance
Sweden was told that the Byrd expedition was in danger and that it was not equipped to spend another winter on the barrier as the food supply is virtually exhausted and Admiral Byrd has reported that several members of the expedition could not survive such an experience.

The minister was informed that one of the Norwegian whalers, the Milne-Almoe, was reported close to the barrier, having been seen by the powerful Norwegian whalers could haul the little party from Little America within 15 days, the department said.

The department also made public instructions sent to Ambassador Davies, at London, to ask the assistance of a British vessel, the Southern Princess, understood to be a whaling vessel, in the vicinity of the Ross sea and ask that vessel to be ready to proceed to Admiral Byrd's assistance upon Davies' request.

Oslo, Norway, Jan. 24.—The Norwegian foreign office today conferred with whaling experts who had expressed themselves as of the opinion that Rear-Admiral Richard E. Byrd's Antarctic expedition would not be isolated for another year by the ice-barriers preventing passage from the Pacific ocean to the Ross sea.

Further conferences with whaling experts familiar with Antarctic conditions are scheduled in order that the Norwegian government may have ample time to take measures to attempt to aid the expedition before the ice-barriers close up for the winter season.

Whaling experts here are generally of the opinion that the expedition's predicament is not as bad as it has been painted and that the expedition's ships will eventually be able to reach the base where Rear-Admiral Byrd and his companions are sheltered.

AUTO PLUNGE KILLS WOMAN

Two Others Injured In Highway Crash In Ohio; Death Instantaneous

Bellefonte, O., Jan. 24.—Mrs. Myrtle Shover, 42, of Bellefonte, was instantly killed, her 15-year-old daughter, Mary, and her husband, Roy Shover, were seriously injured today, when the automobile in which they were riding skidded on the icy pavement and plunged down a 15-foot embankment at Bellefonte, near here.

Mrs. Shover was the driver of the car which turned over several times after it had gone over the embankment. Mrs. Shover is a student nurse at Springfield.

Plane Sinks After Alighting On River

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 24.—Robert Dawson, pilot, and Donald Breeding, mechanic, today are the survivors of a peculiar airplane crash. Their plane, a Flamingo all-metal monoplane, equipped with pontoons for landing purposes, ran on the bottom of the Ohio river.

The motor failed as they were returning from a short test flight yesterday, and the craft dropped into the surface of the river, cracking a pontoon. The men were rescued in a small boat as the plane began to sink.

Annapolis.—The Annapolis high school building is termed as a fire trap by Fire Chief John Fisher in his annual report to the mayor.

Fifty Years a Boat Captain

Mrs. Blanche Leathers, sixty-six years old, for fifty years has been a Mississippi River steamboat captain. She was pictured with a bottle of "Madera" which was presented to her by Jefferson Davis, former president of the Confederate States, when he made a trip many years ago on one of her boats. The bottle bears the inscription: "Blanche, I brought this to you. Don't open this until your first boy comes." The bottle has never been opened. Mrs. Leathers has never had a child.

France, Italy Holding Stage In Naval Confab

London, Jan. 24.—The first major effort to reconcile the radically divergent French and British views on the method of naval armament limitation—whether by global tonnage or by categories—was made today in the private discussions of the delegations at the London naval conference.

The complete French and British delegations met at 10 Downing street to consider the reports of their experts who had been working together. After some discussion an official announcement that "encouraging progress had been made" to reconcile the opposing views was issued. At the same time it was stated the experts would continue their work together.

The complete Italian delegation followed the French delegations to Premier MacDonald's official residence for a conference with the British delegates.

Inasmuch as both the French and Italian conferences with the British were primarily concerned with European problems, the American delegates did not participate in either.

Held Own Meetings
The Americans held their own meeting this morning, and discussed in general the questions now dominant at the conference negotiations. After the meeting, Secretary of State Stimson is summarizing what has been accomplished thus far said that "the progress made has been very encouraging." He declined, however, to be specific.

This afternoon, Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy will be received by Colonel Stimson. As there is no question at issue between the United States and Italy, it is presumed Col. Stimson is seeing the Italian leader in an endeavor to be helpful in smoothing out the Franco-Italian differences.

Receiver Asked For Palestine Factory

Lisbon, Jan. 24.—Appointment of a receiver for the furniture manufacturing business conducted as a partnership between Charles Beattie and Emil Rudnik, both of East Palestine, under the trade name of the Colonial Furniture company, is asked in a petition filed in common pleas by Beattie through his counsel Frank W. Springer.

The partnership was formed July 1, 1927, according to the petition each of the two men putting $2,500 into the business to manufacture furniture, mainly overstuffed stock. It is also declared by Beattie that the partnership has considerable raw material on hand which is valuable and if not made up will rapidly change in value.

A hearing on the application for the appointment of a receiver will be held in common pleas Jan. 29.

MRS. O'BRIEN NOW RELEASED

Woman Freed of Charges in Death of Husband; Lover Now on Life Term in Pen

Chicago, Jan. 24.—Acquitted of having participated with Samuel Howard Dorr, her alleged paramour, in the murder of her husband, Mrs. Genevieve O'Brien today was resting from the rigors of her trial at the home of her father here.

The jury deliberated for three hours and 25 minutes before its members agreed on a verdict of "not guilty" last night. Five ballots were taken in all.

Weakened by the ordeal of her long incarceration and the strain of her trial, the young widow, an expectant mother, swayed as though she were about to faint when the verdict was read. Then she seemed to recover enough to sob her gratitude to the jury.

William O'Brien was fatally shot on the morning of November 30 when he surprised Dorr in his wife's bedroom.

Dentist's Bill in Mail Three Years

Rensselaer, Ind., Jan. 24.—Edward Ranton of the Trust & Savings Bank here, clicked his natural teeth, showed his hat far down on his head and fairly ran to the Harry Wild Automobile Agency.

"What does this mean?" he demanded, showing an envelope under Mr. Wild's nose.

The envelope contained a statement from the Wild Automobile Agency.

"I owe you nothing," Ranton declared. "Paid it long ago."

Wild glanced at the statement and saw it was dated January.

"We haven't sent out our January statements yet," he said perplexed.

Further investigation showed that the envelope in which the statement arrived was postmarked February 4, 1927.

Then both agreed that the post-office department had created a speed record for handling this piece of mail.

They journeyed to see Postmaster Nowels about the matter.

"Quick service," they chorused, "delivering a letter nearly three years after it was mailed."

The postmaster denied the imputation against the postoffice and countercharged that the sender of the statement probably carried it in his pocket for nearly three years.

It's awful to shoot run runners, but they just won't stop when an officer says: "Tut, tut."

Today's Pattern

Isn't this rig delightful for youngsters? The ensemble idea has been borrowed from the grown-up mode, and cleverly made in wool and cotton print. The frock has short sleeves; two inverted skirt pleats afford grace and freedom; tiny pearl buttons adorn the neck trim. The coat may be lined or not, just as you wish.

Design 1831 uses kasha, serge or jersey for the coat and printed cotton broadcloth, percale or pique for the frock and lining.

This pattern may be obtained only in sizes 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 4 requires 1 1/2 yards of 54 inch material for the coat. The dress needs 1 1/2 yards and the lining 1 1/2 yards of 39 inch fabric.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model. The pattern has ample and exact instructions. Yardage is given for every size. A perfect fit is guaranteed.

Night Clubs Favored By Grover Whalen

Philadelphia, Jan. 24.—What Philadelphia needs is a few good night clubs.

The speaker—no less than Grover A. Whalen, police commissioner of New York. Talking at a dinner here last night which proceeded distribution of the Bok awards to heroes policemen, Whalen declared "good" night clubs are almost a necessity.

"We have determined in New York that night clubs, conducted within the law, are a good thing for a city."

Law School to Try Psychiatry Course

Boston, Jan. 24.—A course in "Psychiatry as it pertains to criminal cases" will be offered at Boston university law school according to an announcement made by Dean Homer Albers. It will be the first time in the history of the university that a course of this study has ever been offered and as far as is known, the first time in New England.

The course will be given in the form of a series of lectures by Dr. Winifred Overholser, of the state department of mental diseases, division for examination of prisoners.

Interest in this study is growing rapidly, according to Dr. Overholser, because of its value to the legal profession as a whole. "It has become apparent," he said, "that it is the advantage of the lawyer to be acquainted with this field."

The outstanding course in psychiatry is given in the University of Colorado at Denver, which was possibly the first university in the country to recognize its growing legal interest," Dr. Overholser said.

The term "criminal cases" in the name of the course is understood to mean such civil cases as the making of wills, ability to make deeds, cases of damage, reliability of witnesses, and individuals themselves as mental cases.

Falls To Death

St. Louis, Jan. 24.—The body of Miss Bonnie Grieve, member of one of St. Louis' prominent families, was found today in the back of a local hotel by two garbage men. The woman had leaped or fallen from her room on the sixth floor of the hotel. The body was fully clothed.

BUS OPERATORS FORMING UNION

Owners Claim Schedules Are Now Maintained; Drivers Say Traffic Halted.

Cleveland, Jan. 24.—Preparations for the formation of a new local union of Greyhound lines bus drivers who went on strike yesterday, were being made here today, according to Peter Brown, local organization head.

The group of Cleveland drivers, comprised for the most part of strikers, met last night to form a local union. Application for a charter was made to the American Federation of Labor immediately after the meeting.

Officials of the Greyhound bus lines today reported that the walk-out of drivers in the eastern division after a disagreement over wages has not affected run schedules. Strike leaders, however, declared that bus operation is at a standstill.

War Veteran Dies

Sandusky, O., Jan. 24.—Major George P. Baker, 68, Spanish American war veteran and for many years storekeeper at the Ohio Soldiers and Sailors' home near here, died today.

Baker resigned his post at the military home two years ago on account of ill health. Before the United States and the American Express companies merged ten years ago, he was the United States agent here.

Attorney Dies

Lancaster, O., Jan. 24.—W. K. Martin, 53, prominent local attorney and political leader, died in Municipal hospital here today from apoplexy, after he had fallen unconscious in the street while he was on his way to his office. He was the son of Chief Justice George Martin, of the court of appeals and claims at Washington, D. C.

LANDING FIELD 2,000 FT. HIGH

Oakland, Cal., Plans For
New Airport Above
City's Level

Oakland, Cal., Jan. 24.—A large aircraft landing field surfaced with heavy "bear case" wire will float 2,000 feet over Oakland in a trestle soon, it was announced today by Harry Clayton Belleville, Oakland business man and inventor.

The "up-in-the-air airport" will be kept aloft by 12 captive balloons, under Belleville's plan. Electrically operated propellers will hold the field in position, he explained.

Belleville recently was granted patents for several types of sky fields on which he has worked for 15 years.

The one to be tried here will cost about $35,000, it is estimated.

In the center of the airport will be a section made of magnetized strips of wire. Planes landing on the field would have to be equipped with a magnetized tail skid.

When the plane rolls over this center section, the magnets will draw it to a stop, the inventor declared.

Passengers and freight can be lowered to the ground by means of four cables, one at each corner, he asserted. Three cables could be fastened to tall buildings, Belleville said.

In event of fog, the field could be raised or lowered to clear it of the mist.

Other "upstairs" airports designed by Belleville are shaped like a funnel, the wide end at the top to be used for landings.

Woman Injured In Peculiar Accident

Columbus, O., Jan. 24.—Mrs. Pearl Grady, 31, is in Grant hospital suffering from a broken leg, a possible fracture of the skull and numerous cuts and bruises about the face and body as the result of automobile accident which occurred Thursday.

Mrs. Grady was waiting for a street car when two automobiles collided and one of them skidded into the safety zone where she was standing.

None of the occupants of the two cars was injured.

History In Dispute Over Windsor Chair

Chicago, Jan. 24.—Historical thumbs are colliding as they push back to the days of King George the Third, and American and English tongues again are crossed in argument.

The popular belief that the Windsor chair is a product of the eighteenth century, that the Windsor chair had its origin at Windsor, England, is disputed by historians according to information gathered by the American Furniture Mart at Chicago and now it is up to someone to prove definitely whether the Pilgrims brought the chair to America or whether a returning Pilgrim took an early American Windsor back to England.

The American Windsor researchers say, derived its name from the town of Windsor, in Connecticut which was the center of cabinet-making in the Colonial days. And, too, they claim the design always excelled the English chair.

Historians on the other side of the Atlantic, however, found that one day when King George was visiting the humble home of one of his peasant subjects, he came upon and immediately liked a peculiar type of chair he found there.

From its rustic surroundings, the chair was removed and elevated to the dignity of Windsor castle. Other members of the court and society likewise accepted it and soon several of the chairs were ordered for the castle and for the finer homes in England.

Our English friends admit they can find no record of any individual being responsible for the development of the chair. Like Typo it just grew, they say. In those days, individuals built practically all their own furniture, as needed. One of the Pilgrims, according to English historians, in packing up for the trip to the new country, included one of these chairs in his belongings.

American historians feel that the chronology of events connected with that period supports their contention.

Bride for Premier Worries Rumania

Bucharest, Jan. 24.—Gossips are busy settling the matrimonial future of Premier Julius Maniu, fifty-six-year-old bachelor leader of Roumania.

His name is being linked with Princess Cantacuzina, the widow of the late vice-president of the National Peasant Party, and a distant relative of President Ulysses S. Grant of the United States.

Other rumors declare he is about to take as his wife Mile. Bragadira, daughter of the late "Beer King" of Roumania, and sister-in-law of Foreign Minister Mironescu. Premier Maniu is the first bachelor Premier of Roumania. Until the death of his mother, the remarkable Madame Clara Maniu, the head of the Roumanian Government had only two interests—his country and his mother.

Characteristic of his entire attitude toward honors and social prestige, this leader of the Peasant Party who was strong enough to break the power of an all-influential Bratianu, has steadfastly clung to a sort of social isolation.

But with the death of his mother, this isolation has broken down somewhat and social and official circles are making various guesses about Premier Maniu's matrimonial plans.

Nurse and Doctor Held Him Prisoner

Canton City, Ohio, Jan. 24.—Reviving the pages of a fiction thriller, the strange disappearance in
London, Eng., of Miss Madren, Canton City school teacher, had been told here today.

Madren was rescued by a friend
after being virtually held a prisoner
because he could not pay a doctor's and nurse's bill, and has now been returned to America. He is at the Mayo clinic in Rochester, Minn.,
for treatment.

Returning from England, where he went to locate Madren and bring him back to the United States,
Ralph J. Wann, Canton City business man, told of Madren's unusual experiences.

Nine weeks ago, Wann, returning from Denmark, vanished in London. He had been called abroad to assist in settling the estate of his father.

From London, Mrs. Madren received a cablegram advising her of the date upon which her husband
expected to sail for home. He failed to arrive as scheduled, and no other word was received from him. Inquiries were in vain.

Wann was persuaded to go to London to investigate. Congressman Gay U. Harty, of Canton City, and Secretary of State Stimson arranged for immediate passage.

In London Wann found Madren depressively ill in a fifth floor attached room. He was being held prisoner by a doctor and a nurse who had used his available money for
x-ray pictures and examinations.

Confronted by Wann, the doctor
at first refused to release the patient.

Scotland Yard officers were called to intervene and through their efforts Wann was able to obtain the release of the sick prisoner,
according to the story told friends
here.

Wann said.

POTATO CROP IN NORTHEAST LOW

Agriculture Department Gives Report Showing Great Decrease

Boston, Jan. 24.—Certified seed potato crop in the northeast was 30 per cent smaller last year than in 1935, according to reports received by the United States Department of Agriculture and made public by the New England Crop Reporting Service.

Officials of the northeastern states and provinces of Canada reported that 23,764 acres of seed potatoes passed final field inspection in the fall season of 1935, as compared with 45,167 acres entered in the spring and 47,925 acres passing final inspection last year. All states and provinces except New York and Nova Scotia showed decreases in acreage passing final inspection.

Production in 1935 indicated at 5,941,275 bushels compared with 12,348,653 bushels harvested in 1934. The variety totals showed a 44 per cent decrease in the production of Cobblers, 11 per cent decrease in Green Mountains, 25 per cent decrease in Spaulding Rose, but a 23 per cent increase in all others.

Good Growing Season
Maine had a good growing season and yields average much higher than in recent years. There was practically no late blight, but some frost. Quality of tubers averaged better than any since 1924.

Weather conditions during the growing season were variable. Vermont, central and northern sections had plenty of rain, although there were few small areas which had a deficiency of precipitation. There was practically no blight, but field frost did some damage. Quality of matured potatoes were good. The Crop Reporting Service declared.

In New York wet weather delayed plantings, but the western sections were dry throughout the summer. Rainfall in September helped potatoes in the Lake Ontario counties, but frost prevented much benefit. The yield turned out better than expected, but the size of the tubers was below average.

Dry in Early Season

During the early part of the growing season in New Brunswick it was very dry. Good growing conditions prevailed for the late crops. Early planted fields produced about the average yield while the later plantings showed better than average with quality good.

Nova Scotia reported that the first half of the growing season was dry and the early variety of potatoes showed little yields with 25 per cent or more as small stock.

The later varieties received copious rains which resulted in heavy crops, but which also produced rough tubers, overripe and second growth. Late blight and rot were present.

Prince Edward Island, because of unusually dry conditions during the growing season, had a light crop of Cobblers with small tubers. In Mountains and Spaulding late varieties benefited greatly by late rains. Some yields were reported running as high as 450 bushels per acre.

Pictures Give Life Of Ancient Egypt

New York, Jan. 24.—The story of Egypt's life as the proud artists of that empire depicted in thousands of years ago on the walls of tombs has been gathered for modern America to see by the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York.

Realizing the importance of these paintings the Metropolitan museum began its collection which now is ranked as one of the best in existence.

Since it was impossible to remove most of the Egyptian paintings from their stone walls, the work of copying them was given over to Mr. and Mrs. Norman de Gari Davies by H. E. Winlock, who undertook the task of exploration for the museum some years ago.

Off for Honeymoon in Egypt

Julius Rosenwald, Chicago financier and philanthropist, and Mrs. Adele Goodkind, of St. Paul, mother of Mrs. Lessing Rosenwald, were married January 8 at the Lessing Rosenwald home, "The Meadows," at Abington, a suburb of Philadelphia. Children of the bride and groom by their first marriages were the only guests and witnesses to the ceremony, which was performed by Judge Horace Stern, of Philadelphia. Immediately after the ceremony they sailed on the liner Saturnia for an Egyptian honeymoon.

ways full front, and the legs again intensified and added joy in profile. Egyptian artists always held to their rigidly formal rules when they were depicting persons of repetition of the events of the quality, and it was only in painting earthly life after death, but with servants that they relaxed.

Wild Fowl Find Refuge On Farm

Paris, Texas, Jan. 24.—Wild geese and ducks, so elusive to thousands of hunters, are so tame to J. C. Gambell, farmer, that he could kill them with a stick, if he so desired.

Each winter for the past four or five years Gambell has been feeding wild geese and ducks, which have found his farm a place of refuge as well as a feeding ground. These birds, on their southward or northward pilgrimage each season, which are acquainted with this haunt, fly high until reaching the farm and then circle downward and come to rest in the wheat fields.

In a somewhat amusing manner, they await here their master's call and proceed to his yard to receive grain thrown from his hands. He explains their comparative tameness in saying that the wild fowl have never been frightened by gunfire, and, consequently, have learned his farm is safe.

During the migration season, he feeds corn to hundreds of birds twice each day. He tamed several geese and ducks, but rarely keeps the latter because they fly so low and are killed by nearby hunters.

Take Care of Body Like Your Motor

Boston, Jan. 24.—Look after the care and upkeep of the body with the same understanding and care as is done with the radio and automobile.

That was the advice to college students given by Dr. Nathan H. Garrick, director of the Boston University Health Service Department. "The average school boy who has acquired a working knowledge of his radio and car understands little of the mechanism and of his body," said Dr. Garrick. "Many otherwise well persons show no interest in bodily functions and know nothing about bodily care. Further, more, they do not seem able to apply the same degree of intelligence to the subject that they apply to the other subject. There is an apparent hostility to physicians, a prejudice against hospitals and things medical. To many, the physician is the last resort."

LANDING FIELD 2,000 FT. HIGH

Oakland, Cal., Plans For
New Airport Above
City's Level

Oakland, Cal., Jan. 24.—A large aircraft landing field surfaced with heavy "bear case" wire will float 2000 feet over Oakland in a tryout soon, it was announced today by Harry Clayton Belleville, Oakland business man and inventor.

The "up-in-the-air airport" will be kept aloft by 12 captive balloons, under Belleville's plan. Electrically operated propellers will hold the field in position, he explained.

Belleville recently was granted patents for several types of sky fields on which he has worked for 15 years.

The use to be tried here will cost about $25,000, it is estimated.

In the center of the airport will be a section made of magnetized strips of wire. Planes landing on the field would have to be equipped with a magnetized tail skid.

When the plane rolls over this center section, the magnets will draw it to a stop, the inventor declared.

Passengers and freight can be lowered to the ground by means of four cables, one at each corner, he asserted. Three cables could be fastened to tall buildings, Belleville said.

In event of fog, the field could be raised or lowered to clear it of the mist.

Other "upstairs" airports designed by Belleville are shaped like a funnel, the wide end at the top to be used for landings.

Woman Injured In Peculiar Accident

Columbus, O., Jan. 24.—Mrs. Pearl Grady, 31, is in Grant hospital suffering from a broken leg, a possible fracture of the skull and numerous cuts and bruises about the face and body as the result of automobile accident which occurred Thursday.

Mrs. Grady was waiting for a street car when two automobiles collided and one of them skidded into the safety zone where she was standing.

None of the occupants of the two cars was injured.

History In Dispute Over Windsor Chair

Chicago, Jan. 24.—Historical thumbs are colliding as to the origin of the Windsor chair, the Third and American and English tongues again are crossed in argument.

The popular belief that the Windsor chair had its origin at Windsor castle, is disputed by historians according to information gathered by the American Furniture Mart at Chicago and now it is up to someone to prove definitely whether the Pilgrims brought the chair to America or whether a returning Pilgrim took an early American Windsor back to England.

The American Windsor researchers say, derived its name from the town of Windsor, in Connecticut which was the center of cabinet-making in the Colonial days. And, too, they claim the design always excelled the English chair.

Historians on the other side of the Atlantic, however, found that one day when King George was visiting the humble home of one of his peasant subjects, he came upon and immediately liked a peculiar type of chair he found there.

From its rustic surroundings, the chair was removed and elevated to the dignity of Windsor castle. Other members of the court and society likewise accepted it and soon several of the chairs were ordered for the castle and for the finer homes in England.

Our English friends admit they can find no record of any individual being responsible for the development of the chair like Topsy it just grew, they say. In those days, individuals built practically all their own furniture, as needed. One of the Pilgrims, according to English historians, in packing up for the trip to the new country, included one of these chairs in his belongings.

American historians feel that the chronology of events connected with that period supports their contention.

Bride for Premier Worries Rumania

Bucharest, Jan. 24.—Gossip is busy settling the matrimonial future of Premier Julius Maniu, fifty-six-year-old bachelor leader of Roumania.

His name is being linked with Princess Cantacuzino, the widow of the last vice-president of the National Peasant Party, and a distant relative of President G. I. I. I. Grant of the United States.

Other rumors declare he is about to take as his wife Mlle. Bragadira, daughter of the late "Beer King" of Roumania, and sister-in-law of Foreign Minister Mironescu.

Premier Maniu is the first bachelor Premier of Roumania. Until the death of his mother, the remarkable Madame Clara Maniu, the head of the Roumania Government had only two interests—his country and his mother.

Characteristic of his entire attitude toward honors and social prestige, this leader of the Peasant Party who was strong enough to break the power of an all-influential Bratianu, has steadfastly clung to a sort of social isolation.

But with the death of his mother, this isolation has broken down somewhat and social and official circles are making various guesses about Premier Maniu's matrimonial plans.

Nurse and Doctor Held Him Prisoner

Canon City, Colo., Jan. 24.—Revaluing the pages of a London thriller,
the strange disappearance in London, the story of Mrs. Maden, Canon City automobile driver, had been told here today.

Madon was released by a friend
after being virtually held a prisoner
because he could not pay a doctor's
and nurse's bill, and has now been returned to America. He is at the Mayo clinic in Rochester, Minn.,
for treatment.

Returning from England, where he went to see his mother and bring her back to the United States,
Ralph J. Wann, Canon City business man, told of Madon's unusual experience.

Nine weeks ago, Wann, returning from Denmark, vanished in London. He had been called abroad
to assist in settling the estate of his father.

From London, Mrs. Maden received a cablegram advising her of the date upon which her husband
expected to sail for home. He failed to arrive as scheduled, and no other word was received from him. Inquiries were in vain.

Wann was persuaded to go to London to investigate. Congressman Clay U. Harry of Canon City and Secretary of State Blinnet arranged for immediate passage.

In London Wann found Madon desperately ill in a fifth floor attolic room. He was being held presented by a doctor and a nurse who had used his available money for
x-ray pictures and examinations.

Confronted by Wann, the doctor
at first refused to release the patient.

Scotland Yard officers were asked to intervene and through their efforts Wann was able to obtain the release of the sick prisoner
according to the story told friends
here.

Agriculture Department Gives Report Showing Great Decrease

Boston, Jan. 24.—Certified seed potato crop in the northeast was 30 per cent smaller last year than in 1935, according to reports received by the United States Department of Agriculture and made public by the New England Crop Reporting Service.

Officials of the northeastern states and provinces of Canada reported that 23,754 acres of seed potatoes passed final field inspection in the fall season of 1935, as compared with 43,167 acres entered in the spring and 47,925 acres passing final inspection last year. All states and provinces except New York and Nova Scotia showed decreases in acreage passing final inspection.

Production in 1935 indicated at 8,941,275 bushels compared with 12,564,425 bushels harvested in 1934. The variety totals showed a 44 per cent decrease in the production of Cobblers, 11 per cent decrease in Green Mountains, 32 per cent decrease in Spaulding, Home, but a 23 per cent increase in all others.

Good Growing Season
Maine had a good growing season and yields average much higher than in recent years. There was practically no late blight, but some frost damage. Quality of tubers averaged better than any since 1924.

Weather conditions during the growing season were variable. Vermont, central and northern sections had plenty of rain, although there were few small areas which had a deficiency of precipitation. There was practically no blight, but field frost did some damage. Quality of matured potatoes were good. The Crop Reporting Service declared.

In New York seed, whether delayed plantings, but the western sections were dry throughout the summer. Rainfall in September helped potatoes in the Lake Ontario counties, but frost prevented much benefit. Occasional rains in the southern sections. The yield turned out better than expected, but the size of the tubers was below average.

Dry in Early Season
During the early part of the growing season in New Brunswick it was very dry. Good growing conditions prevailed for the late crops. Early planted fields produced about the average yield while the later plantings showed better than average with quality good.

Nova Scotia reported that the first half of the growing season was dry and the early variety of potatoes showed little yields with 25 per cent or more as small stock. The later varieties received copious rains which resulted in heavy crops, but which also produced rough tubers, over sizes and second growths. Late blight and rot were present.

Prince Edward Island, because of unusually dry conditions during the growing season, had a light crop of Cobblers with small tubers. Green Mountains and Spaulding like varieties benefited greatly by late rains. Some yields were reported running as high as 40 bushels per acre.

Pictures Give Life Of Ancient Egypt

New York, Jan. 24.—The story of Egypt's life as the proud artists of that empire depicted it thousands of years ago on the walls of tombs has been gathered for modern America to see by the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York.

Realizing the importance of these paintings the Metropolitan museum began its collection which now is ranked as one of the best in existence.

Since it was impossible to remove most of the Egyptian paintings from their stone walls the work of copying them was given over to Mr. and Mrs. Norman de Gori Davies by H. E. Winlock, who undertook the task of exploration for the museum some years ago.

Julius Rosenwald, Chicago financier and philanthropist, and Mrs. Adele Goodkind, of St. Paul, mother of Mrs. Lessing Rosenwald, were married January 8 at the Lessing Rosenwald home, "The Meadows," at Abington, a suburb of Philadelphia. Children of the bride and groom by their first marriages were the only guests and witnesses to the ceremony, which was performed by Judge Horace Stern, of Philadelphia. Immediately after the ceremony they sailed on the liner Saturnia for an Egyptian honeymoon.

ways full front, and the legs again intensified and added joy in profile. Egyptian artists always held to their rigidly formal rules when they were depicting persons of repetition of the events of the earthly life after death, but with servants that they relaxed.

Wild Fowl Find Refuge On Farm

Paris, Texas, Jan. 24.—Wild geese and ducks, so elusive to thousands of hunters, are so tame to J. C. Gambrell, farmer, that he could kill them with a stick, if he so desired.

Each winter for the past four or five years Gambrell has been feeding wild geese and ducks, which have found his farm a place of refuge as well as a feeding ground. These birds, on their southward or northward pilgrimage each season, which are acquainted with this haunt, fly high until reaching the farm and then circle downward and come to rest in the wheat fields.

In a somewhat amusing manner, they await here their master's call and proceed to his yard to receive grain thrown from his hands. He explains their comparative fearlessness in saying that the wild fowl have never been frightened by gunfire and, consequently, have learned his farm is safe.

During the migration season, he feeds corn to hundreds of birds twice each day. He tamed several geese and ducks, but rarely keeps the latter because they fly so low and are killed by nearby hunters.

Take Care of Body Like Your Motor

Boston, Jan. 24.—Look after the care and upkeep of the body with the same understanding and care as is done with the radio and automobile.

That was the advice to college students given by Dr. Nathan H. Garrick, director of the Boston University Health Service Department. "The average school boy who has acquired a working knowledge of his radio and car understands little of the mechanism and operation of his body," said Dr. Garrick.

Many otherwise well educated persons show no interest in their bodily functions and know almost nothing about bodily care. Furthermore, they do not seem able to apply the same degree of intelligence to the subject that they apply to any other subject. There is an apparent hostility to physicians; a prejudice against hospitals and things medical. To many, the physician is the last resort.

College students should take an interest in, and acquire knowledge of their bodies. The physician is merely another student, who by study and training has obtained a special knowledge of the human body in health and disease, and who is able to apply his learning to health problems. A physician wants to know a student and to help him at the beginning of his troubles rather than later, after damage has resulted from neglect. He wants to help one's fears, to counsel and advise how to keep health, not to patch one up.

Simple adjustments in habits, hours of sleep, exercise, hygiene and food may be all that is needed to carry on a school schedule and get the most out of it.

Los Angeles—Every piece of the control surface of a newly developed three place cabin plane and a new training plane, demonstrated recently by officials of the Courier Monoplane company, of Long Beach was interchangeable.

STORE NAMED IN COMPLAINT BILL

East Liverpool Firm In Serious Financial Condition Is Creditor's Claim

Cleveland, Jan. 24 — A bill of complaint against the Ross Stores, incorporated, of New York, in behalf of their establishment in East Liverpool, O., was filed in federal court here today by the Lampert Manufacturing company of New Jersey.

The complainant charges that the Ross company, though claiming assets totaling $2,800,000, is indebted to banks and creditors to the extent of $1,380,950, which it is unable to pay.

The Lampert Supply company, in its complaint charges that the Ross company owes the complainant $17,507, and asks the court to enjoin the East Liverpool establishment and name a receiver for the store.

In an answer to the bill of complaint, also filed here today, solicitors of the Ross company admit the allegations of the complaining firm and consent to a receiver being named.

City Hospital Notes

Pauline Kanner, of Canfield, had her tonsils removed Friday at Salem City hospital.

Kenneth Bunn, patient at the hospital, has been discharged.

Recalls Early Glider Flight

New York, Jan. 24 — The recent report of officials of an American gliding association to the effect that for the first time in history an attempt would be made to launch a glider from an airship brings a statement from Mr. Hugh F. Sullivan, secretary of The American Society for Promotion of Aviation that although the effort is a most commendable one and no doubt will be successful if attempted by persons of considerable gliding experience.

According to aeronautical records a similar attempt was made in this country over twenty-five years ago. Mr. Sullivan states, and one attempted in a disaster of a peculiar nature. In 1905 records show that Professor Montgomery was experimenting with gliders as were Chanute, Langley and other pioneers of aviation.

Montgomery conceived the idea of having the glider released from a balloon at a height of 2,000 feet. A pilot named Maloney volunteered to make the test. In releasing the glider from the balloon, one of the guy wires of the balloon caught in the framework of the glider causing the framework to break with a loud snapping noise. Observers saw the glider fall away from the balloon and after turning over righted itself and made a good landing. When the onlookers rushed to the spot where the glider had landed Maloney was found to be dead. The opinion given at that time was that Maloney, hearing the framework snap and expecting momentarily to have the glider crumple about him, had died of heart failure in the descent.

Injuries Are Fatal

Marion, O., Jan. 24 — J. P. Wilmaier, 50, of Marion, a switchman for the Erie Railroad company, died in City hospital here today, following the amputation of both his legs which was necessitated after an accident in the local railroad yards.

Golden Eagle Makes Final Stand For City Cage Title Tonight

Art Jewelers To Meet Topnotchers In Final Battle Of First Half

Golden Eagle merchants, topnotchers and undisputed holders of first place in the city class A cage circuit by virtue of their decisive 21-16 victory over the Electric Purpura, make their last stand for titular honors in the opening half, meeting the Art Jewelers in the feature tussle of a two game program at Memorial gym tonight.

Tonight's two games mark the close of the first half of the class A competition and unless the Jewelers upset the dope bucket and hand the Birds their first setback of the season, the second half will get under way next Tuesday night.

But an upset is not looked for in that the Art combine has failed to display any cage technique that is any threat towards the Golden Eagle team's monopoly of the league leadership. When the final whistle blows this evening it is anticipated that the merchants will be without dispute, crowned titleholders of the first half schedule.

Cigars Meet Motors

The first game on the program is an important clash for two of the circuit's underdogs, the United Cigars and Grate Motors. The Cigars are now in fifth place and the Grates occupy the humble seventh position, clear at the bottom of the heap but incidentally need only the victory over the Tubers to advance two notches in the standings.

The Cigars-Motors tussle is billed as the lidifier and is slated to start at 7:30 with Referee Roebuck at the officiating helm. Roebuck will also handle the main event.

The Jewelers have expressed confidence of trimming the leaders and a classy battle is anticipated when the two teams clash in the feature mix. The Birds will present their usual array of basketweavers with Coy or Kelley and Caplan forwards; Cape center and Older and Allen guards. The Jewelers will line up with Hann and Lewis, forwards; Kiowa center and Glasgow and Harsh, guards.

The Bohr Florists company tenpin team was defeated by the Lyons Dairy five of Alliance, at Alliance Thursday night. The Salem combine lost by a total of 201 pins.

Summary:

Bohr Florists	1st	2nd	3rd	Tl.
Deerow	164	183	191	538
Jackson	156	130		286
Hutler	138	167	162	468
C. Shepard	169	166	241	576
A. Shepard	148	183	185	513
R. Shepard			181	181
Totals	775	826	962	2561

It is unusual in that it is analogous to some such a request as East Palestine or some other school might make of Salem High in future football seasons, asking that Coach Floyd Stone not permit his team to use the forward pass in one of its games.

It is typical of Salem High's football fandom that it make up a fund of volunteer donations to honor the 1929 Red and Black grid squad for its great season of 11 consecutive victories. But the 13 or 15 players who bore the major part of the team's burden in actual varsity competition will not alone be honored—the entire squad of more than 50 gridders will receive the awards for every Salem fan is appreciative of the work done towards helping the varsity on to its great season by the scrimmage workouts.

Fans were not asked to donate to the fund. They merely came and placed their names on a long list with other donors and made donations without the usual canvases. As a result, 22 gold football charms and 30 silver awards were purchased, to be awarded to the various players at a recognition assembly at the high school auditorium soon.

But with all the glamor of the successful football season ended, basketball has made its entry into the city's schedule of sporting events and as far as the high school is concerned is not being greeted favorably. Mere handfuls of the more faithful fans are turning out for home games; the school coffers is not being replenished to any great extent, and unless larger crowds turn out the season may come to a close with the athletic association fund showing a large decrease over funds received during past cage seasons.

With city league basketball proving such a great success Joe M. Kelley is planning to climax the season with a sandlot basketball tournament in March. Teams of the entire tri-state district, including West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Ohio, will be invited.

Mount Favored To Win Game Tonight

Alliance, Jan. 24.—There seems little doubt that Bowling Green's cagers are headed for defeat tonight when they meet the Mount Union college basketweavers in Memorial hall here.

After the flash of a brilliant game that left Akron in the lurch last week, Bowling Green can only hope that the Methodists will not have such a playing streak on for Jan. 24. The Mount quintet has improved considerably in shooting—and the combination used in the Akron contest proved the best working arrangement yet tried.

Carnero Makes Debut Tonight

Italian Giant To Battle Big Boy Peterson

By DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, Jan. 24.—They are going to remove the leg chains from Primo Carnero, the wild man of Padua, at Madison Square Garden tonight and let him snarl and romp and jump before the very eyes of the frightened thousands. Six feet, nine inches by the tape, and 275 pounds by the scale, the south finally is to be allowed to large after a month of captivity in America and, with his keepers at a distance for the first time, one fears the worst for Big Boy Peterson, who has consented to assist with the exhibition.

The latter is scheduled to go 10 rounds and, if it goes six, everybody will be violently startled, including the Big Boy himself. His routine calls for four fast rounds and one of the fastest finishes in the history of boxing. This is for ordinary change. As a valuable champ in his own right, Carnero is about as ordinary as a run-of-the-mill stepladder, so if Big Boy isn't there at the scheduled finale, everything will be quite according to the script.

More One Man Show

Anyhow, it is supposed to be strictly a one-man show, featuring the prehistoric throw-back of a man with all of his extraordinary adjustments—his specially-made shoes in which to stomp around, his special-made gloves with which to hit Nobody, it seems, has thought of the specially-built ring in which he is to fall.

As a matter of fact, he is not supposed to fall at all tonight. Big Boy not only is giving away 75 or 80 pounds in weight and some seven or eight inches in height and reach but he is an admitted boso, who fights plenty wisely but not too well. He is plenty wise but not too well. The press agent of the enterprise refers to Big Boy's "superior knowledge" but neglects to state that his knowledge of canvas is unexcelled.

At that, it looks as though they are going to sell the place out to some 20,000 admissions, so great is the mastodon's personal attraction with the populace. They have been following him around for weeks, gazing at him, spellbound, like so many yokels in a freak-museum; so it is only natural that they are going for this one-to-five-dollar box office price in order to see him make his first—and maybe his last—fight in America.

Not His Last Fight

It doesn't figure to be his last fight, however. This guy must have something or he couldn't go in there and Brannigan with Stribling through two tough fights. Even the good ones couldn't put Stribling on the floor but Primo arose from a tumble upon his haircut in London and dropped William in the next minute of play. He won the fight on a foul in the following round. He went seven rounds with William the next time out before being disqualified for hitting after the bell.

Perhaps, heretofore, it wouldn't be a second-class idea to be a little charitable with the big lumox. He has only had about 80 rounds of actual fighting so far and it will be asking the limit to expect him to go in there and fight like a champion tonight. As a matter of fact, he will do all that can be reasonably expected of him if he wins before the limit of 10 rounds.

Find Disease Germ At Home In Clouds

Akron, O., Jan. 24.—Justification of an old theory, founded mostly upon superstition, that death may literally "rain from the skies," has resulted from a survey just completed in the Los Angeles area by Dr. Charles Barton, according to a report released here by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., through whom the survey was conducted.

Dr. Barton, prominent in Pacific coast medical circles, made his observations from the airship Volunteer over congested population centers progressively up to as high as 13,000 feet, testing and analyzing theories regarding the upper strata of air.

High above the earth, according to Dr. Barton's survey there exists disease germs in countless numbers. When Pasteur discovered the germ as the cause of disease, the ramifications of this revelation confined the medical profession to the earth's surface.

With the advent of aviation, however, and resulting scientific observations such as that conducted by Dr. Barton, it has been found that the natural habitat of disease germs is the clouds, where they are immune from the deadly rays of the sun.

LEETONIA

The Kiwanis club met in St. Paul's Lutheran chapel on Tuesday evening. The Priscilla club served the dinner. The 15th anniversary of Kiwanis was observed at this meeting. The speaker of the evening was Atty. Lewis Gueneri, past president of the Warren Kiwanis club. He spoke on "Kiwanis Ideals" and stressed the following things—better citizenship; vocational guidance and placement; and underprivileged child. Mr. Gueneri was a very able speaker and gave some very good illustrations. The club passed a resolution commending the board of public affairs of Leetonia for keeping the park and cemetery in good condition. Lester Redfoot was awarded the attendance prize.

Mrs. C. C. Burbick very pleasantly entertained associates of the Wednesday Afternoon Bridge club at her home, Sumner st. Two tables were in play. Mrs. Ben Miller won high score and Mrs. A. A. Crawford, low.

Mrs. Francis Zeppernick very pleasantly entertained card club associates at her home, Columbia st. Wednesday afternoon. Two tables of five hundred were in play. Mrs. Raymond Baker was awarded high score and Mrs. Oscar Calladine, the consolation.

I. F. Mellinger was the speaker.

Prof. Bruce Visits Tomb of Seki Kawa

Boston, Jan. 24.—A mathematician of the west, paid homage at the grave of a mathematician of the east, when Prof. Robert E. Bruce, professor of mathematics at Boston University, visited the tomb of Seki Kawa, regarded as the father of Japanese mathematics at Tokio, Japan.

Information of the visit was contained in a letter from Prof. Bruce, who is touring the Far East with Mrs. Bruce, received by the Boston University College of Liberal Arts.

The name of Seki Kawa, inventor of the Japanese form of Calculus, is known to mathematicians all over the world. Two monuments mark his grave at Jorin-ji, 85 Ben-tou Cho, Ushigome, Prof. Bruce wrote.

Seki Kawa was born in 1642. He early distinguished himself and had many followers. He was buried upon his death with great honor.

Eighty years afterward, Prof. Bruce recounted, the grave was discovered by three men, Masakuni Saito, Yoshinobu Honda, and Norihisa Kimura.

Finding that the inscription had grown dim they took up a collection and built a new monument on which is inscribed the life story of the Japanese mathematician.

Chief Justice Taft Will Go Into Hospital

Chief Justice Taft, subjected to unusual strain recently by his work and by the death of his brother, has decided to enter a hospital for a week's treatment, and then go to Asheville, N. C., for recuperation. The physician of the former President, who is 72, said he expected his patient to resume his duties on the bench within a month.

Detroit Auto Show Exhibits Many Cars

Detroit, Jan. 24.—Latest models of passenger and commercial cars representing close to forty manufacturers will be on display at the Detroit Automobile Show here January 18 to 25.

The background for the Custom Body Salon will be one of the utmost luxury in appointments, entirely in keeping with the showing of the custom-built bodies mounted on chassis of the more expensive cars. This collection it is thought will be more embracing than at any previous Detroit show.

For several months manufacturers have been conducting experiments with the view to producing cars during show time that will be outstanding in their respective classes.

The mystery surrounding mechanical improvements and advancements in body designs to be revealed at the 1930 show, together with the promise of real surprises by H. H. Stuart, its manager, is serving to stimulate interest on the part of the public. A keen desire to learn what the rival plants are to bring out also is attracting the attention of thousands of workers in the automotive industry in their territory.

Trees Counted In Sweden's Forests

Stockholm, Jan. 24.—Sweden has been taking stock of its "green gold" meaning its forest reserve, and after seven years of work the nation's tree count has just been completed. The distance covered by the checkers was approximately 32,600 miles, or five times the distance from Stockholm to Cape Town, most of it through uninhabited territory.

Thanks to rigid reforestation laws which limit cutting and require systematic and continuous planting of trees, the country's timber resources are today greater than expected and the regrowth is faster than the current rate of cutting. Consequently, the supply can be made to last indefinitely.

More than half of the country's area is tree bearing, chiefly pine and spruce, and over one-half of the Swedish exports are today derived in some form or other from the forests. The prevalence of spruce is especially welcome, as it is used in wood pulp which is one of Sweden's chief articles of sale abroad, and for which the United States is an important customer.

Including bark, the entire supply of standing timber measures 50,000,000,000 cubic feet, or one-third more than expected, while the annual regrowth is 1,684,477,000 cubic feet, with bark which is two-thirds more than the preliminary estimates anticipated.

"Konjola Only Medicine That Did Any Good"

"How I Wish I Had Known of This New Medicine Long Ago", Says Former Sufferer

MR. C. R. HASENPFLUG

Wherever Konjola, the new and different medicine is known many have exclaimed: "How I wish I had known of this new medicine long ago." No wonder, for Konjola makes good when all else tried has failed. Consider the experience of Mr. C. R. Hasenpflug, Bellefont Building, Sandusky. And his case is typical of Konjola at large. Praising this modern medicine of 32 ingredients he said:

"Konjola is the only medicine that ever did me any good, and I tried scores of them in my search for relief from indigestion and chronic constipation. Even the lightest foods disagreed with me; I lost much sleep and became worn out and without ambition. A friend, who knew by experience of the powers of Konjola, insisted that I try it. Well, I did and I am the happiest man in Sandusky as the result. Just four bottles of this wonderful medicine restored my digestion, and I am feeling better in every way."

Konjola is sold in Salem at all J. H. Lease and Mr. Kaminsky drug stores, and by all leading druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

"Stagger System" Urged in Capital

Washington, Jan. 24 — President Hoover has submitted for consideration to the heads of the government departments the suggestion that all departments use the "stagger system" for opening and closing of government offices in order that traffic congestion may be relieved to some extent.

The scheme which the president suggests was used during the World war with great success and although restoration of the system has been discussed at various times, this is the first official recognition that has been taken in the matter.

President Hoover recommends that one-third of the federal employees report for work at 8:45 and depart at 4:15 o'clock; another third would report at 9 and conclude at 4:30 o'clock as is the present method of all employees, while the remaining third would begin at 9:15 and finish at 4:45 o'clock.

Finds Owa-Ton-Na A Fine Systemic Tonic

Liver and Kidneys Now Function Normally
Appetite Improved

MR. WM. HEISER

Why suffer a feeling of lassitude and fatigue when Owa-Ton-Na is recommended by thousands to be an agent to restore normal function?

tion of these organs, with the result that you enjoy new pep and energy. Mr. Wm. Heiser, North Canton, Ohio, has found in Owa-Ton-Na, a valuable aid in removing that sluggish, tired, worn out feeling. He says:

"Even the first bottle made a big change in my condition. My kidneys, liver and stomach all got a good overhauling. It is surprising the way that fine old Indian remedy routs the tired, worn out, all-in feeling. My bowels act regularly, headaches and dizzy spells are gone, my kidneys act normally and I certainly am pleased with the results I got from this herbal preparation."

Owa-Ton-Na's success in kidney, liver, stomach and intestinal disorders, rheumatism, neuritis, nervousness and a general run-down condition of health has made it the most popular remedy wherever it has been introduced. You should give Owa-Ton-Na a trial. Thousands who suffered ill health now praise Owa-Ton-Na for the results after other methods tried had failed.

Owa-Ton-Na is sold in Salem at J. H. Lease, Flodin and Bolger or an agent to restore normal function. French drug stores—Adv.

THE HOME KITCHEN

By Jeannette Young Norton

Some people grow up with a prejudice against beet, though it is, but contemptuously, throwing them into the parsnip and spinach class. Which is an injustice to the beet, because beets are a hardy lot and stay with us when cold weather keeps many other fresh vegetables from the table. And beets can really be good—very good, if properly cooked and seasoned.

In the first place, beets need to be chosen with care. They should be smooth, of good shape, with hard roots. If the roots are withered or flabby and there are all kinds of roots protruding from the backs at odd places, they are probably too old and not worth fussing with. Nor are the large beets the best of any means. On the contrary, these overgrown ones are sure to be too tough to eat, no matter how long you cook them. A medium sized or small beet is of delicate texture and a good flavor.

STYLE EDICTS

Paris, Jan. 22.—It will be an exceedingly "crepe" summer from all indications of the French fabric-makers, who are announcing an unheard of output of crepe materials for warm weather wear, both old and new creations.

Some of them are very light and others are much heavier, crepe for coats and wraps. Crepes entirely made of wool are nearly always armored and small check effects are particularly in favor. A very new crepe of this variety has tiny faint checks in its weave and is called crepe abayah. Lenacape is a fairly heavy one of velvety effect and another lighter one for frocks is named Lenacape.

Crepe balis has tiny chevrons in its weave and crepe hindus resembles a heavy tightly-woven etamine. Wool remain is also included in the summer crepes.

In the silk crepes there are dull weaves lighter than crepe de Chine and heavier than chiffon with the revival of crepe roman and a charming newcomer called crepe mohique, a flat weave that is slightly transparent and much like a very heavy crepe chiffon.

Crepe georgette will ever be popular and there is a new crepe weave with a chine effect in the weave. Crepe amaris is another sheer crepe weave and fleur de sole.

Crepe marocain, which was a favorite for midseason wear and still is popular this summer, with its new cousin crepe niole, a very dull surface which is almost pebbled.

Crepe sublime is presented with tiny printed dots or stars in white on a dark ground and is very appropriate for summer suits.

Today's Pattern

THE latest style development is reflected in this two-piece frock smartly buttoned and belted. It is extremely simple, too, relying on the lines and fabric, instead of trimming, for its chic. The collar and revers, the rounded pockets and the inverted skirt pleats, are features of decided interest.

Design 1830 may be developed in cotton or wool for equally charming results; pique, kasha, jersey, sheer tweed, wool crepe, etc. A leather belt is worn at the natural waistline or below, whichever is more becoming.

May be obtained only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28 and 30. Size 16 requires 2 7/8 yards of 34 inch material.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model. The pattern has ample and exact instructions. Yardage is given for every size. A perfect fit is guaranteed.

COUPON

This pattern will be delivered upon receipt of 10c, cash or stamps, carefully wrapped. Latest Fashion Book 10c. Send all orders to SALEM NEWS PATTERN DEPARTMENT, 245 WEST 17TH STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

"SKIN DEEP" At The State

"Skin Deep," all-talking Vitaphone picture starring Monte Blue opened last night at the State.

Blue assumes an entirely new character—the dual role of a gangster, before and after suffering has remade him.

Blue is supported by a company which adds to the dramatic appeal. First of all there is the baby star Davey Lee, Betty Compson, John Davidson, Alice Day, John Bowers, George Stone, Tully Marshall, Robert Perry and many others.

"Skin Deep" as a talking picture is as nearly perfect as any seen to date—a human document, splendidly played, it is without a superfluous scene.

Blue has never been quite so effective as in the unique dual role of Joe Daley.

"THE VIRGINIAN" At The Grand

"The Virginian" is the first outdoor classic in sound and color. Gary Cooper is cast in the title role. His first full-length part. Walter Huston, featured lead of "Gentleman of the Press," is seen and heard as Trampas, the villain. Richard Arlen is Steve, the wayward cow-puncher, and Mary Brian is Molly Wood, the winsome school-ma'am.

"The Virginian," a novel of the 60's, gained quick fame as the greatest American novel ever published and to this day it is held to be one of the great classics of literature. It brought universal renown to its author, Owen Wister. A few years later Wister and Kirk La Shelle transcribed the book into a play of the same name. The play became as famous as the novel. Dustin Farnum created the role of the Virginian on the stage and since then, since other actors have achieved correspondingly widespread fame in the same role.

Cooper, with his winning drawl and tall, rangy physique is cast as the hero. Huston is the villain. Hollywood boasted it had every kind of vehicle there was, from an ex-cast to a $35,000 custom built Minerva motor car, but Eric Stacey, Paramount property department worker, searched the film village in vain for an English taxicab of the 1916 vintage.

True to the traditions of property men, however, Stacey was not balked. He wined New York, and when that failed, he cabled a friend in London to look up an ancient cab.

The friend found it, and for $103 paid a local man, handsomely for shipping. Hollywood now is equipped for practically any demand in the way of common or uncommon carriers.

For the same picture, a few shell fish known as "Winkles" were needed. They are not found on the Pacific coast, so a batch was imported from New England by way of refrigerator car.

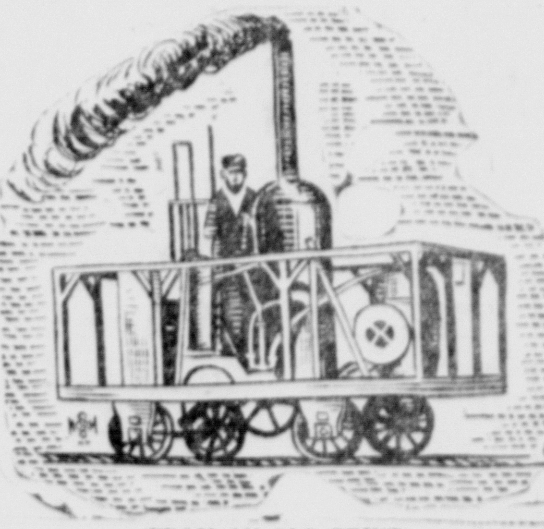

Los Angeles—The 110 miles of airway between here and San Diego will be illuminated and marked with beacon lights before spring officials of the Western Air Express announced today.

La Porte, Ind.—To die from drinking his own liquor was the fate of George Kaez, 24, of Michigan City. Officials found 55 gallons of moonshine liquor at his home which led to his conviction on a liquor charge. He was preparing to serve out the fine of $100 and costs in the La Porte county jail here when he died of poison liquor.

New York—The Casino theater, center of New York night life during the gay 90's, is to pass into the hands of the wrecker.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

By Wanda Barton

How can I keep the sparkle of this lovely silver always? That's the first thought, on beholding a new set. Silver is one of the very few items in the household that can be expected to last one's lifetime in its beauty unimpaired. But it does need a certain amount of attention regularly.

To begin with, silver requires careful placing. The simplest method is to keep it in the fitted box in which received—if it is the compartment style where each piece has a groove of its own, and no two pieces can touch each other. If the silver has not come in such a box, then the best expensive container is one made of red or gray cotton flannel. (White flannel is not desirable because the chemicals used in bleaching the material may cause the silver to tarnish.)

These flannel cases can be purchased for any quantity of silver, from a few spoons to complete dinner sets, including serving knives, spoons, ladles, etc. The fitted case can then be suspended on a door or the pantry or wherever most convenient to dining room. And since there is room in each stitched space only for one item, there is little chance that silver will be thrown in carelessly in a hurried moment.

A more expensive container for silver is one made to order, and consisting of shallow trays made with special wooden grooves in which each piece fits perfectly. In turn, these grooved trays fit into the drawers of sideboard, buffet or whatever kind of space they are desired for. Trays and grooves are all tightly lined with flannel, completely protecting the silver from marks or scratches.

If a few pieces of silver are purchased at a time, these special drawers, too, can be bought singly and eventually a perfectly fitted cabinet is acquired. Like a string of pearls, one at a time.

Another small job that helps to preserve silver brightly is to give it a lot of rubbing at every use. A piece of chamomile or specially prepared cloth, such as sold by silver-smiths, should be kept in the drawer with the silver. A quick flick over each piece just before it is placed on the table will add a sparkle to the whole table.

As for cleaning, hot soapy water is usually adequate. A quick immersion, hot rinse and drying is sufficient daily treatment. Egg-stained spoons or forks can first be treated with a salt and cold water solution before washing.

Silver, of course, will tarnish, and for all sorts of reasons having nothing to do with the quality of the silver. If gas or coal are burned in the room, there will be sulphur compounds in the air, and this will tarnish silver no matter how little it is exposed. Contact with rubber, with bleached or dyed fabrics, will tarnish silver. But as this is only a surface discoloration, it requires little effort to remove.

There are all sorts of excellent cleansers for this purpose. Fine whitening, silver pastes and polishes can be rubbed on to the silver, allowed to dry, then wiped off with a soft cloth or a bit of chamomile. A quicker way to clean silver is to immerse all in an aluminum vessel containing 1 teaspoon of washing soda and 1 teaspoon of salt for each quart of water. This should be enough water to cover the silver completely, and the vessel should be large enough so that each piece of silver can touch the aluminum. Bring to a boil, then remove the silver, wash and dry. The aluminum container will be discolored and must be cleaned thoroughly before using.

There are prepared silver cleaning utensils that may be purchased for this purpose alone.

PULLED TOO SOON

A newly-married woman was shopping and was determined that the grocer should not take advantage of her youth and inexperience.

Don't you think these eggs are very small?" she said critically. "I do," answered the grocer, "but that's the kind the farmer sends me. They are fresh from the country this morning."

"Yes," said the shopper, "that's the trouble with these farmers. They're so anxious to get their eggs sold that they take them out of the nest too soon."

WHO'S WHO IN SALEM

S. C. Jessup, manager of the Jessup Pattern Works, one of Salem's leading small industries. Mr. Jessup has gradually increased the output of his factory until today we consider it an important factor among Salem's industries.

The last few years they have specialized in shoe case and store fixtures. This part of the business has grown rapidly. They have outfitted many stores throughout this section. All of which are a credit to Mr. Jessup, his factory and Salem.

This is a factory deserving of everyone's boasting. If you hear of a store which plans to remodel, speak a good word for Jessup Pattern Works, a Salem owned factory.

NEWS AND PROGRAMS

TONIGHT'S FEATURES

Olin Howard, the comedian, will appear as the featured entertainer in the Brown Bill footlights coming from the Columbia chain at 8 tonight. WEAQ players offers "A Marriage Has Been Arranged" at 8:30. The NBC chain, originating at WJZ, renews another famous love episode in its "Dolly Madison" program at 8:45.

Pay Canrell, noted crooner and George Basse, equally well-known violinist, are featured in the Ar-mour program from the WJZ chain at 9:30. CKGW broadcasts the hockey game between London and Toronto at the same hour.

LILY DAMITA TO SING

One of the outstanding programs scheduled in the future brings Lily Damita, young French screen star, before the "micro" in the Fleischmann hour next Thursday night. Rudy Vallee's orchestra is also on the program and will play "The Song of the Condemned," the theme song of the show "Condemned." Graham McNamee will be master of ceremonies.

Fannie Brice will sing over the Columbia chain on Feb. 6 and Harry Richmond, former New York stage star, will celebrate his advent into talking movies by singing in the Paul Whiteman hour on Tuesday, Feb. 4.

BROADCAST CAGE GAME

Salem basketball fans will be able to listen to the play-by-play account of the Big Nine court contest between Ohio State university and the University of Minnesota at 7:50 tonight through Station WEAQ in Columbus. WEAQ will radiotelect all of Ohio State's home basketball games during the season and will also give play-by-play accounts of the final game in the state interscholastic tournament as usual when that event rolls around.

WKBN IN CRISIS

Youngstown's radio station, WKBN, is up against it as far as chain broadcasting is concerned for unless it secures some assistance from the Columbia network soon, it will be forced to drop chain programs. This is due mainly because WKBN pays out $700 each month for wire charges and receives no return from the commercial programs it carries at present.

Broadcasting stations must carry more than three hours of commercial programs before they are able to claim return and WKBN carries only three hours and signs weeks not that, so the entire $700 paid out for wire charges is lost. Because of this the station is asking fans in Salem and vicinity to help out and write to the Columbia chain, address Philadelphia Storage Battery company, Philadelphia, and request it to add to WKBN's network programs.

JACK LITTLE AT WLW

Little Jack Little, popular radio and stage entertainer, continues his stay at WLW and appears at the microphone at various hours during the day. He comes on the air for a 15 minute program at 11 tonight and returns during the three-hour "Insomniacs" program starting at 1 a. m.

Through The Microphone

The National Broadcasting company has announced that bulletins will be broadcast daily from London while the big conference on naval disarmament is being held in St. James palace.

William Hard is the NBC's observer at the conference and his daily summaries will be relayed across the Atlantic at approximately 1 p. m. (E. S. T.) and then re-broadcast through a nation-wide hookup of stations.

The opening address of King George V and complete details of the opening ceremonies January 21, was a special feature on radio networks here and abroad the first day of the conference. Although the royal address and other features were picked up about noon in England, this program reached American listeners at approximately 6 a. m.

For the first time in history, the entire population of the United States was able to observe international history in the making as a result of the broadcasts. "We embrace this opportunity to place our combined resources for unusual service at the disposal of the American public," M. H. Ayresworth, president of the NBC declared, "because it demonstrates as we have long wished to demonstrate the potentialities of radio as an instrument of world-wide understanding and sympathy."

"It is highly appropriate that this endeavor should go hand in hand with such epoch making attempts to lay a secure foundation for lasting peace among nations. We only hope there may be further occasions for radio to lend its fullest assistance to such noble undertakings."

"No matter how many good qualities a radio receiver possesses it cannot give satisfaction unless it is sufficiently sensitive and selective to meet the crowded conditions of the ether which it must face. It may be capable of the most perfect quality of reproduction; it may be easy to tune, and it may give plenty of volume, but if it jumbles the programs of two stations together, its good qualities are useless. For this reason, selectivity, especially in congested areas, is of the utmost importance," says J. A. Downe, chief instructor of the National Radio Institute of Washington, D. C.

"There is a very definite limit, however, to the selectivity allowable in a receiving set used for the reception of voice or music, for in order to receive these, it is necessary to receive equally well, not merely a single wave length or frequency, while listening to a given station, but a channel of frequencies about 16,000 cycles wide. For example, suppose we wish to listen to a broadcasting station whose frequency is 930 kc. A receiving set that is so selective as to receive only this frequency would not be able to pick up voice or music from that station. The receiving set should, therefore, be made so as to receive equally well, and all at once, all frequencies from about 945 to 955 kc. while listening to that 930 kc. station. Furthermore, if the selectivity of the receiving set is to be the best possible, all frequencies below 945 kc. and all above 955 kc. should, at the same time, be completely rejected."
